Scope and Content Note

In 1971, William Grover Cook set out on a quest to better understand the family of his grandmother [Violetta Virginia (Snowden) Hiatt]. Five years later he collated his research into a book entitled Montpelier and the Snowden Family, first published in 1976 and in continual publication, with revisions, ever since. This archival collection encompasses the materials he gathered during those five years of research. Items found in this collection include photocopies and notes taken from noted genealogical reference books, newspaper and journal articles about the history of the Snowden family and their homes, correspondences with family members, copies of wills and estate inventories found at the Maryland State Archives and other repositories, copies of correspondences of certain family members, marriage records, legal records, church and cemetery records, numerous resources related to the family's land holdings include land plat drawings drawn by Mr. Cook himself, and photography. This collection is a treasure trove of information about the greater Snowden family in America that goes well beyond the scope of the book he finally wrote.

Processing Notes:

This collection came together organically because of how the materials had been organized by Mr. Cook originally. During processing, the goal was to keep the same organization found in the binders, folders and notebooks so all of the now loose newspaper clippings, for example, are generally in the same order as they were found in the original binders and other containers. However, if there were two articles with the same topic, these items were placed together in the processed folder to make access easier. We also placed all of the materials in the same number order as found on each of the original binder covers—please note that these numbers are not necessarily inclusive, for whatever reason. In addition, we kept the original binders so you can see directly how Mr. Cook organized his materials. Please note that some of the binders contain original art by Mr. Cook and a few have some information taped, glued or written on these binders, so be sure to take a look inside them. This is the other reason why they were kept. The collection was divided into three major groupings—Initial Research, Organizing Research and Chapter Development, and Final Typed Manuscript. Each of these sections was divided into particular categories denoting the type of materials found within that particular grouping based upon the original Cook organizational methodology.

Please note that Series 3 was a very difficult series to organize in order because so many of the letters have very few identifying pieces of information such as dates or signatures. We did our best to place these in chronological order following the information found on the letters. However, in the future someone may find additional resources that can help shed light on who wrote these letters to whom and at what time and thus allow for a more accurate organizational method by date and the people involved.

Furthermore, we have noted the page numbers of pages copied from books. However, for inventory sake we have also noted the number of pages to be found within one grouping. The numbers of pages within a single group is noted as “5 pp.” for example, and represent the number of sheets of paper not necessarily the number of pages that were copied since some sheets had multiple pages copied onto them.

Because these materials were often held together by staples or paperclips, which were removed, the groups are now identified by paper paperclips. When handling these materials please handle them by these paper paperclips and respect how the items are identified as one group so that the next person will know that these particular sheets of paper go together. Also, try to keep materials in original order as they are found in the folders because this is the order in which we found them when we first started processing the collection. This will allow the person who follows you to have the same experience and understanding of the materials as you.

PLEASE NOTE: The rehousing for this collection is not complete at this time. At some point, an intern or museum staff trained in archival processing will need to remove the final remaining staples and clips as well as copy any newspaper clippings, acidic lined paper or any other acidic materials onto acid-free paper and removed the original from the collection unless the items has intrinsic value such as some of Mr. Cook’s drawings which should be rehousing in materials that will aid in their preservation.

Series Description:

Series 1: Initial Research—Materials in Binders

This is by far the largest series found in this collection. It contains resources from newspaper and journal articles; genealogical resources such as The Thomas Book and Colonial Families of America; land records including land plat descriptions, maps and drawings; Snowden family military records including the Revolutionary War, Civil War and World War I records; resources from the Maryland Hall of Records (Maryland State Archives); chancery, court and related legal records; marriage, death, church, and cemetery records; and individual Snowden family histories.

Series 2: Initial Research—Books and Booklets

This series contains predominately bound materials that relate to the history of the Snowden family and the places they lived or are loose materials that did not fit easily into another category because their original placement could not be adequately determined due to the fact they were found with items from another collection.

Series 3: Initial Research—Letters and Other Correspondence

This series contains letters written to or from Snowden family members. Many of the letters do not have full dates or do not have the signature of person who wrote it or the person the letter was written to is not identified. The materials were organized in chronological order as much as possible with the items with little or no identification at the very back. Also, some letters have had typed transcriptions done. Those have also been included if it was possible to identify the correct letter.

Series 4: Initial Research—Snowden Family Land Holdings

This series contains 3 x 5 inch file cards that identify land holdings held by the Snowden family. There are over 150 file cards that identify particular land holdings. The materials are arranged in alphabetical order and are divided by original file card alphabetical dividers.

Series 5: Initial Research—Wills, Estate Inventories and Related Information

This series contains selected estate inventories, last wills and testaments, a provincial court judgement, a land plat description, and a general index to deeds and mortgages dating from 1707 to 1919.

Series 6: Initial Research—Oversized Maps

Contains one Department of the Interior, U.S. Geological Survey map showing the Laurel Quadrangle, 1926 Edition

Series 7: Organizing Research, Chapter Development

This series is the second largest in the collection and contains materials related to what Mr. Cook planned to include in his book in the order he had originally thought would be appropriate. The order is based upon chapter numbers found on the binder covers. Please note that chapter four appears to be missing. The series does contain some additional materials that were not part of the original initial research grouping. Areas covered in this series are: Montpelier, other Snowden houses and related buildings, general genealogies, individual family member histories, land records, wills and related documents. The grouping contains some original drawings done by Mr. Cook and others.

Series 8: Final Typed Manuscript

This series contains a marketing request for the book Montpelier & the Snowden Family and the sheet music for “Montpelier” plus 14 pages of names and mailing address of people who purchased one or more copies since June 1, 1977 as well as traced signatures on tracing paper used to decorate the cover of book. In addition, this series contains the original 356 pages of the typed manuscript as it was prepared to be sent to the printer for publication.
